Kevin Boyle, Head Coach | Montverde Academy

Kelly Boyle, Owner | Kevin Boyle Basketball Camps/Clinics

Kevin Boyle is a four-time national high school coach of the year (USA Today, ESPN, Naismith). He has appeared in the prestigious Dick's National High School Championship Final game in five of the last six seasons, winning three consecutive national championships. In April 2017 his high school team, Montverde Academy (FL), was deemed "The Team of the Decade in High School Basketball" by USA Today. Kevin is the Director of the Montverde Academy Center for Basketball

Development, with over five teams under his guidance from 7th grade to Post Graduate year. Among those teams is the nationally renowned high school varsity team producing NBA Lottery picks: Ben Simmons, 1st pick 2016; D'Angelo Russell, 2nd pick 2015; and Joel Embiid, 3rd pick 2014. Included in his 30-year coaching career was his first stop at St. Patrick HS (NJ) where he built his first national program and coached Kyrie Irving (1st pick 2011) and Michael Kidd-

Gilchrist (2nd pick 2012). HBO filmed the documentary A Prayer for a Perfect Season, about his 2010-2011 season. Kevin and wife Kelly own and operate Kevin Boyle Basketball Camps/Clinics in Florida and New Jersey. KBBC is also international, with thriving camps in Brazil, China and Russia. Kevin Boyle's coaching career at Montverde Academy enters its 31st season as he continues to develop basketball champions playing at the highest level in college and in the NBA.
